What is Modern Slavery? The Australian Commonwealth Modern Slavery Act 2018 defines modern slavery as including eight types of serious exploitation: trafficking in persons; slavery; servitude; forced marriage; forced labour; debt bondage; deceptive recruiting for labour or services; and the worst forms of child labour. The worst forms of child labour include situations where children are subjected to slavery or similar practices, or engaged in hazardous work.

CEO introduction and purpose of this statement

I am pleased to present Transdev Australasia’s modern slavery statement for the reporting year ending 31 December 2020 (this “Statement”), prepared for the purpose of section 16 of the Australian Modern Slavery Act 2018 (Cth) (the “Act”).

This is an inaugural statement pursuant to section 14 of the Act made by reporting entity Transdev Australasia Pty Ltd (Transdev Australasia), a proprietary company limited by shares incorporated under the Corporations Act 2001 (Cth). Transdev Australasia is the parent company and principal governing body of Transdev Australasia’s group of entities and has prepared this Statement on behalf of those entities constituting reporting entities as defined under the Act. Our purpose at Transdev is to give people the freedom to move every day, thanks to safe, reliable and innovative solutions that serve the common good. We connect people and communities – where they live, work and play – operating public transport services on buses, ferries, light rail, trains and new mobility solutions across six cities in Australia and New Zealand. Showing genuine care for our employees, stakeholders, communities and our customers is at the very heart of our purpose, and therefore so too is the fight to combat modern slavery.

We recognise the potential existence of modern slavery in our operations and supply chains.

Our approach is to manage modern slavery risks as a subset of broader sustainability related concerns important to our business and stakeholders. We are committed to the objectives and principles underpinning the Act and to working with our stakeholders, contractors and suppliers in preventing and mitigating any modern slavery impacts associated with our day to day work.

In the reporting year 2020, we have established a Sustainable Procurement team and taken significant steps to better understand modern slavery risks across our business and supply chains and determine how best to mitigate them – Our actions are aligned with our purpose, our broader sustainability commitments and the mandatory requirements under the Act.

We have developed a Sustainable Procurement Action Plan (SPAP), with the support of external experts. The SPAP was informed by completing a gap analysis of existing procurement and contract management practices against ISO 20400: 2017 Sustainable procurement and mapping risks and opportunities inherent in our supply chains; it includes a core focus on protecting human rights and combatting modern slavery.

The SPAP complements Transdev Australasia's existing governance and risk management practices, in Australia and New Zealand and globally as part of the European headquartered Transdev group.

Our approach shows our commitment to meeting our communities' expectations, to improve trust and respect among all employees and with our stakeholders.

Sincerely,

Luke Agati, CEO Transdev Australasia

It comprises the following four pillars:

Our supply chain structure

These strength and magnitude of these supplier relationships create increased need and opportunity to collaborate and mitigate risks in the supply chain and strive for continuous improvement and improving sustainability outcomes.

In the reporting period, we improved upon and communicated a supplier charter as a commitment to ethical, sustainable and socially responsible procurement (Supplier Charter). This Supplier Charter applies to all suppliers engaged by Transdev and sets out the minimum requirements for suppliers and their supply chain in the areas of integrity, ethical business conduct, conflict of interest, gifts, benefits and hospitality, corporate governance, labour and human rights, health and safety and environmental management.

Suppliers to Transdev are required to comply with this Supplier Charter in accordance with Transdev's purchase order terms and conditions or the relevant contract for the supply of goods and services; including committing themselves to eliminating human rights related risks and complying with possible audits.

RISKS

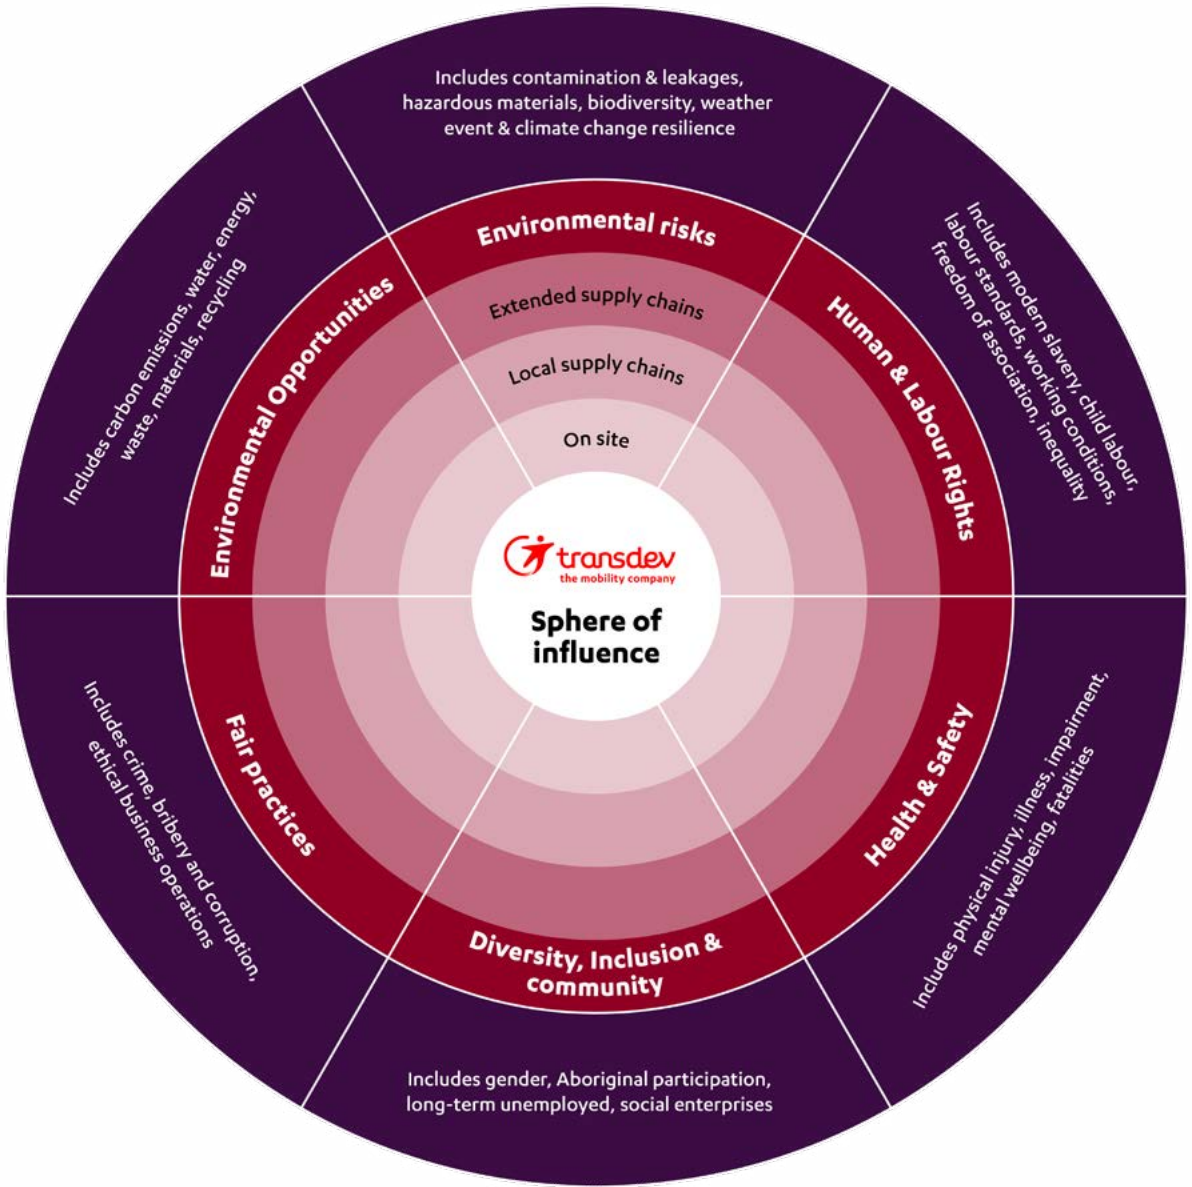

Risks associated with our operational structure

Transdev Australasia's operational structure is characterised by a high degree of unionisation and a largely local supply chain. Frontline employees working within or for Transdev are subject to enterprise agreements under which they are remunerated accordingly. All of our other employees, including the majority in corporate teams, are subject to employment contracts. Due to the nature of these employment arrangements, the risk of modern slavery directly within Transdev Australasia's workforce is low.

Risk assessment

In 2020 we established a Sustainable Procurement Project Team, including members of our Procurement, CSR, People and Culture and Safety and Assurance functions. This collaborative team worked with reputable external experts to complete a gap analysis of existing procurement and contract management practices against ISO 20400:2017 Sustainable Procurement, and a risk and opportunity analysis of our supply chain. Through a series of internal stakeholder interviews and risk workshops we reviewed our 30 supplier categories (outlined in Section 2) and mapped risks and opportunities covering our six key focus areas of sustainable procurement highlighted below.

Our assessment of modern slavery risks in our operations and supply chains was based on their potential to cause, contribute or be directly linked to, modern slavery practices.

The six key focus areas of Transdev Australasia's approach to sustainable procurement

Risk assessment results

Transdev Australasia has not yet identified any specific instances of modern slavery and so far, has found with high confidence, that we do not actively cause or contribute to modern slavery. However, we recognise the risk of modern slavery in our operations and supply chains remains. As a result, we have committed ourselves to facilitating additional transparency throughout our extended supply chain.

Through our risk and opportunity assessment, we identified three potential hot spots for modern slavery in procurement categories that are known to have a higher prevalence of human rights and modern slavery risks in their industries: Cleaning, security and uniforms. their potential to cause, contribute or be directly linked to, modern slavery practices.

Cleaning: Our organisation has implemented stricter hygiene and cleaning protocols to contribute to safe and secure transport solutions during the pandemic. The heightened demand in this industry, and changed economic environment during the pandemic, may have heightened modern slavery risks in this category.

Security: Transdev Australasia subcontracts most of its security needs. Modern slavery risks exist similar to those in the cleaning industry, associated with labour hire. Furthermore, modern slavery risks also exist in the manufacturing of CCTV and security equipment due to complex overseas supply chains.

Uniforms: In the reporting year, Transdev Australasia procured uniforms through suppliers who have complex overseas supply chains. We therefore acknowledge a risk associated with the nature of the product and have developed a strategy with our uniform supplier to indicate the sourcing country and the region for each and every garment we purchase. Suppliers will also provide certificates of ethical practices from the factories where the uniforms are manufactured.

APPROACH

to combating modern slavery
2020 overview

In 2020 Transdev Australasia established a Sustainable Procurement Project team to work with external experts to assess our current capabilities and maturity. This involved the previously mentioned procurement and contract management gap analysis, and our risk and opportunity analysis of our supply chains.

As an outcome of this work, Transdev Australasia developed a Sustainable Procurement Action Plan (SPAP) to guide our efforts combat modern slavery and achieve other sustainability benefits through procurement.

Sustainable Procurement Action Plan

The SPAP outlines a three-year path to uplift current internal capabilities and processes in line with ISO 20400:2017 Sustainable Procurement, and ensure our procurement processes, policies and fundamentals evolve in line with stakeholder expectations now and in the future.

Our SPAP includes engaging key internal and external stakeholders on issues relating to sustainable procurement, and working proactively with key suppliers to achieve continuous improvements in outcomes related to Human Rights (including mitigating the risk of modern slavery) and our five additional focus areas for sustainable procurement: Fair operating practices; Environmental risks; Environmental opportunities; Health and Safety; Diversity, inclusion and community.

More information about the deliverables aligned to the SPAP is included in Section 6 of this statement.

Key objectives of Transdev Australasia's Sustainable Procurement Action Plan

Established governance and risk management practices

The SPAP compliments our Growing Responsibly Framework and Transdev Australasia's well-established governance, policy and risk management practices. The established elements below will contribute to how we manage our response to human rights and modern slavery risks:

Supplier Charter: Our Supplier Charter sets out the responsibilities and reporting standards we expect of our suppliers and ensures suppliers comply with local and wider regulation. We expect all existing and new suppliers to commit to the charter including all clauses within it. Our dedication to eliminate modern slavery is communicated through our human rights section which includes (but is not limited to) provisions on coercion-free as well as the absence of forced, bonded or indentured labour.

Model Contract Clauses: Transdev has developed Model Clauses for agreements with counterparties, prepared in line with generally accepted market standards and main regulatory contracts relating to ethics and compliance matters (e.g. UKBA, FCPA, Sapin II). They are designed to remind our counterparty of the values and principles to which we adhere, obtain various representations including that the counterparty has not and will not commit a violation of the ethics & compliance rules in connection with the purpose at stake, ensure Transdev has audit rights, and that we may suspend or even terminate the underlying contract in the event of a reasonable suspicion of breach.

Ethics and Compliance Management System: Transdev Australasia complies with Transdev Group's global Ethics and Compliance Management System (ECMS). The ECMS sets out stringent requirements in respect to the protection of human rights, transparency, action against corruption, and the application of local laws and regulations. Its requirements are embedded into our teams' management systems and plans, and form part of our internal performance monitoring.

Know Your Counterpart process: In line with our ECMS we are implementing 'Know your counterpart' (KYC) process for key suppliers. KYC constructs risk profiles and captures valuable information about each of our suppliers and their actions and commitments. This helps us to assess whether a potential supplier is aligned with our policies and ambitions.

Further relevant Transdev Group policies - Code of Ethics, Human Rights Policy, and Anti-Corruption, Money Laundering and Financing of Terrorism (ACMF) Code of Conduct: Our decisions and actions are governed by Transdev Group's code of ethics, which applies to all companies (entities) operating as part of Transdev Group globally. Transdev Group continuously updates the Code of Ethics to match and surpass an ever-changing external environment and regulation. Transdev's Global Code of Ethics are supplemented by Transdev Australasia's Business Ethical Guidelines Policy. Furthermore, Transdev group's Human Rights Policy and Anti-Corruption, Money Laundering and Financing of Terrorism (ACMF) Policy provide clear behavioural and procedural expectations of Transdev Australasia employees and partners, and a strong ethical framework.

MEASURING

performance and effectiveness

To measure effectiveness and implementation of our SPAP, including the mitigation of modern slavery risks, we have implemented a governance structure specific to sustainable procurement consisting of three main levels: Oversight, Coordination & support and Implementation.

Governance structure of sustainable procurement at Transdev Australasia

Remediation

At Transdev Australasia, we value input and feedback on issues such as modern slavery from all stakeholders. Our culture of minimising risks and taking responsibility allows us to take a proactive stance on remediation.

Our whistleblower policy gives employees and stakeholders a voice, allowing them to report misconduct and raise any ethics related issues such as modern slavery without fear of reprisal. During the reporting period, we consolidated our anonymous Whistle-blower hotline and a corresponding policy. This includes an action plan for when an issue materialises.

Transdev will focus on raising awareness of the forms of modern slavery among our employees and supply chain, continue to evolve our due diligence processes to aid in identifying relevant risks, reviewing existing processes and improve modern slavery risk mitigation throughout our supply chain.

We commit ourselves to developing further capabilities for modern slavery remediation and other sustainability related issues.

FUTURE OUTLOOK

In 2021 and beyond, we expect to increase our diligence regarding modern slavery reporting and risk management. We anticipate a prolonged impact of the COVID-19 pandemic and will continue to deliver necessary services and support to our affected stakeholders.

Our SPAP will be delivered over the next three years. In 2021 we will complete Year 1 and transition into Year 2 of the plan. A summary of our planned activities to realise our SPAP objectives are highlighted below:

High-level sustainable procurement action plan

	Year 1	Year 2	Year 3
ISO 20400 Framework 	Executive and leadership engagement	Broad stakeholder engagement and training to build competence	Review of SPAP outcomes
	Update SP governance including key policies	Continuous improvement of SP governance	Review procurement and contract management systems
	Enhance procurement processes and plans
